

François Dauvergne

François is coach and management consultant, specialized in change management and organization development.

François has been coaching and consulting for over 20 years in Europe, developing teams, coaching Executives and managers and supervising consultants. He privileges systems thinking approach in his work, in particular for coaching and team building. This concrete, confronting and constructive approach, frees-up people and organizations potential towards higher flexibility, adaptability and initiative.

A Business and Management School graduate, he is certified in Transactional Analysis, NLP, strategic approach, Palo Alto model and codevelopment. A solid and continuous supervision work and a strong commitment in a group practice sharing reinforce his engagement when working with Clients. A deep personal work using analytical psychology and humanist therapy ensure him a strong hold.

François teaches at 'Ecole Nationale des Travaux Publics d'Etat. He is very active in developing management consulting. He is Associated Member of SFCoach, the French Society for Coaching.

He works in English and in French.